Anno do. M. cccc. xliiii. an. xxxvi. Henrici octauil Wylliam Lorton mayre,

John Wyfforde, Andrew Iud Shireffes.

The fyrst day of October, the kynges grace departed from Bulleyn towarde Douer: and at hys goyng he dubbed foure knyghtes at the waters syde.

The eyght daye of October, the dolphyn came with a great power out of hygh Fraunce, and camped at Morgysen and set his trompet with two hundred hoylmen and men of Armes towarde Bulleyn, and they marched on the Northeast syde, where the kynges grace camped, and the trompeter came to Bullen. gate and blew his trumpeter to come to my Lorde Deputy and taried at the gate frome nyne of the clocke befoze noone, tyll two of the clocke at after noone, and then he came into Bulleyn to my Lorde Deputy and sayd the Dolphyn his maister hadde sente to somon the towne. And my Lorde Deputy and the counsell gaue answere to the Dolphyn of despaynce, and then the trumpette and the buschement of hoysmenne marched backe towarde Morgysen.

The .9. day of October, about .2. o. 3. of the clocke in the mornynge, came the Dolphin and his army from Morgysen towarde Bullen on the Northeast syde to the Olde man, and from thens marched forth downe into bafe Bulleyn about .iiii. o. 5. of the clocke in the mornynge, and there beganne to spoyle and kyl oure men in theyr beddes, and made great slaughter, til the Larum was harde of all our men in Bafe Bulleyn.
And the frenche men approched vnto them, yet by the myght of God, our men many beyng sycke, and but a small nombre to the frenche men, fought with them from fyue of the clocke, tyll halfe an houre past fyve, then the Larum was harde in hygh Bulleyn, by the men of bafe Bulleyn which was soze amaled, and many were slayne and hurt for lacke of cappytynes, and the reste were dyspuen by to Bulleyn gates. And then al the men in hygh Bulleyn were commaunded to the walles, and then the great ordynance was shot out of hye Bulleyn into bafe Bulleyn amonge the frenche men, and slewe many of them. Yet the french men recovered the towne of them tyll the lord de putte commaunded sy Thomas Woyninges to take certein men with hym, for his men warded in bafe Bulleyn that nyght, and by the myght of God & good fortune, sy Thomas Woyninges spied a standard, with a, L. men and cryed a newe Larum and set on the frenche men, compynge coragiously towarde them and fought sooze with them: the frenchmen turned theyr backs & ran awaye, and our men folowed and slewe many of them and put them all to flight, thanks be to God, and there was many slayne on both parties, to the nombre of nyne hundred, belyde those that were hurt, of the which many dyed. And the same day our men toke .xv. standerdes, and slewe the bearers of them. Also there was slayne of theyr Capitaines, to the nombre of thre score, one was taken and no moze, and they toke on of our Capitaynes, and diuers other that were naked, to the nombre of .xii. or .xvi. and then they marched towarde Hoggysen.

The .x. day of October the Dolphin sent his trumper to the lord de putte of Bulleyn, to knowe what cappytynes, men of armes, and other of his men the Englysh men had taken, and the lord de putte made an answer, and said he had but one, then the Dolphins trumper said, that they lacked of theyr capitaines, men of armes, and other of their foze men, to the nombre of .viij. L. and mo, and the lord Deputy deliuered the frenche Cappytaine, and the Dolphin deliuered ours.
